

Cambridge Graham Beall

Cambridge Graham Beall was born 26 July 1886 at Cedar Rapids, Iowa to Harry and Sadie E. (Houx) Beall. In 1908, his family moved to Inver Grove. He worked as a machinist at the St. Paul Bridge and Terminal Company before his service.

He was inducted at Inver Grove in March 1918. He received his military training at Camp Dodge, Iowa. Cambridge served with Company A, 140th Infantry, 35th Division, and saw action at the battle of Argonne. He received shrapnel wounds during the battle and died on 29 September 1918. He was 32 years old. Beall is buried at the Meuse-Argonne American Cemetery.

After the War, his parents lived in St. Paul, Ramsey County, Minnesota. From correspondence in the Gold Star Soldier files at MNHS, it appears that Beall's mother waited until 1923 to learn the place of burial of her son.

